

Collecting Veterans' Oral Histories: A Statewide Interactive Workshop

Ken Burns's landmark documentary, The War, showed how powerful the personal testimony of ordinary soldiers can be. Now you can take part in the preservation of our country's heritage by interviewing veterans and submitting their stories to the Library of Congress.

Iowa Public Television is proud to present a live workshop, via the Iowa Communications Network, to help students and educators conduct interviews with World War II Veterans. The sessions will be led by Emmy-winning producer and videographer David Miller; and by IPTV's communication and outreach coordinator, Mary Bracken.

Sessions for College Students & Educators:

Wednesday, March 5
3:00-4:00 PM

Monday, March 10
4:00-5:00 PM

Why Get Involved?

- Enhance your résumé by working on a meaningful project
- Develop your skills in video production and interview technique
- Learn about history from the people who lived it

To register, visit:

<http://www.k12connections.iptv.org/>

1. Click on the session title
2. Read the description
3. Scroll to the bottom of the page and click the "Register Here" button for the time you want
4. Follow the directions to choose an ICN location near you

Students can register individually, or professors can sign up an entire class

Questions? Contact michael.graefe@iptv.org
(515)-242-5414

